PIEMONTE

TENUTA DEL MELO

The estate extends over 180 hectares including 42 of vineyards 60 of fields and the remaining are pastures, chestnut, elderflower and acacia woodlands protecting numerous species of wild animals. The Rossi Cairo family bought La Raia in 2003, with the aim of recovering and enhancing the original ecosystem through a broad intervention project, inspired by the bio dynamic principles. At La Raia they use two spray preparations, the horn manure and the horn silica, which influence the dynamic of the vegetal growth, improving the quality of our grapes and crops.

PUNSET

Punset has legendary origin. The vineyard have been owned by the Marcarino family since distant times and it is difficult to trace to the date of commencement of the activity of wine- making; this in the past was not the main effort of the house and the production of the wine was limited to having to meet the family consumption. Renzo Marcarino, in 1964, officially begins the activity by placing the first bottle on the market. At the beginning of the years' 80 a decisive step, desired and pursued by his daughter Marina, marks the turning point: convert all of property to organic farming, eliminating all kinds of pesticide and chemical products.

CERALTI BOLGHERI

Ceralti's great passion for viticulture is also encouraged by the territory, its micro-climate and its geographic location. These ingredients create a unique combination of positive factors. Nine hectares vineyards, situated on the hills between Castagneto and Bolgheri, the homeland of many world famous wines. Grapes are hand-picked and processed both through traditional methods and modern vinification techniques. 6200 plants per hectare, that are grown using either a running system or a guyot. The plant's low yield is not only related to the density of the plantation, but rather to the nature of the soil, that may cause thinning grapes.
